Preface

Provision of world-class infrastructure is recognised as a necessary condition for sustaining a robust growth of any modern economy. The Eleventh Plan, therefore, envisages an investment of about Rs. 20,54,000 crore in infrastructure as compared to about Rs. 9,06,000 crore realised during the Tenth Plan. Since this level of investment cannot be met through budgetary resources alone, it is expected that at least 35 per cent of the total investment would come from the private sector. The Government has, therefore, taken several initiatives to attract private investment through Public Private Partnerships (PPP) for the development of infrastructure.

PPP projects typically involve large investments and entail transfer of several risks to the private concessionaires. They also involve diverse and conflicting interests of different stakeholders including the government, investors, lenders and users. An ill-conceived PPP contract can easily compromise user interests by recovery of higher charges and provision of low quality services. It can also compromise the public exchequer in the form of costlier or uncompetitive bids as well as subsequent claims for additional payments or compensation. As such, the importance of a sound structure of the PPP contract can hardly be over-emphasised. Structuring of a PPP contract, however, requires specialised skills which are normally not available within the Government. It is, therefore, necessary to engage experienced and qualified consultants for structuring a project that would not only meet the ends of public policy but would also be bankable.

For creating a transparent, fair and competitive environment, the Government has been relying increasingly on standardising the documents and processes for award and implementation of PPP projects. Based on international best practices, a number of Model Concession Agreements (MCAs) have been evolved for different sectors. The process of prequalification and selection of bidders has also been standardised through adoption of model documents for a two-stage selection comprising the Request for Qualification (RFQ) and Request for Proposals (RFP). These documents can be adapted with considerable ease for meeting the specific requirements of individual projects.

The role of financial consultants is critical since the success of a PPP project depends on its viability. The financial consultants are, therefore, expected to appraise the project, develop a revenue model and structure the project on a least cost basis. The financial consultants should also compile and analyse the financial data relating to all costs and revenues, and help in identification and allocation of project risks. An important aspect of good financial advice would be a clear assessment of the financial impact of a project on the government and the users.

Selection and appointment of financial firms, however, is more complex than is normally anticipated. Setting the eligibility conditions, the parameters of evaluation and the remuneration structure based on the time spent and output delivered pose issues that are different compared to selection of advisers for other disciplines. The objective is to engage a reputed financial firm with an experienced and qualified financial expert who will provide the requisite advice and structure the project in the best way. The process of selection should not only be fair, transparent and competitive, it should enable the selection of competent experts. The Model Request for Proposals (RFP) for selection of Financial Consultants and Transaction Advisers contained in this volume aims at meeting these objectives. It also specifies procedures and processes to be followed in conducting the selection process.

This Model RFP has been drafted after extensive consultations with ministries, stakeholders and experts, including an inter-ministerial consultations. It has been approved by Deputy Chairman, Planning Commission and the Finance Minister, and has since been issued by the Department of Expenditure. The Ministries and autonomous bodies of the Central Government are expected to follow this Model RFP in the selection and appointment of financial consultants and/ or transaction advisers for PPP projects. This Model RFP would also serve as a best practice document for the State Governments to adopt. It is hoped that adoption of this document would enhance the possibilities of delivering successful PPP projects.

Overview of the framework

Need for a standardised framework

With a view to enabling a smooth transition from public sector projects to PPPs and for adoption of best practices, Government of India has recognised the critical role of standardising documents and processes to be adopted for structuring and award of Public Private Partnership (PPP) concessions. Standardised documents enable Project Authorities to save on the time and costs involved in structuring complex PPP projects. In addition, they afford protection to individual entities and officials against making errors and answering for them. Such standard documents typically lay down the norms, principles and parameters to be followed for PPP projects and enable Project Authorities to adopt them with considerable ease for meeting the specific requirements of individual projects.

Standardised documents save on time and costs; avoid costly mistakes

Need for Consultants

The process of structuring PPPs is complex and the requisite expertise does not normally exist within the government. Nor do the Project Authorities have the time and staff resources that go into fine-tuning the documentation for PPPs. Employing experienced consultants enables the project authorities to enhance the possibilities of a successful project, helps in avoiding costly mistakes, promotes capacity building within the government sector and builds investor confidence in the entire process.

Consultants required for structuring a successful PPP project

Separate technical, financial and legal consultants

The Central Ministries, State governments or Statutory entities owning such projects (the “Project Authorities”) would normally need expert financial, legal and technical advice for formulating project documents necessary for award and implementation of PPP projects in an efficient, transparent and fair manner. Project Authorities sometimes seek the comfort of a single consultancy firm to handle all aspects of project preparation and award. While it may appear to be a convenient approach especially for Project Authorities lacking in experience, this can lead to sub-optimal outcomes and large contingent liabilities or claims arising out of the project document and contract. It is an international best practice to engage technical, legal and financial consultants separately as the firms rendering such services are independent of each other and must also provide their advice independently. Where necessary, the Project Authorities may also entrust the financial adviser with the role of transaction adviser for coordinating the bid process.

Separate technical, legal and financial consultants

To begin the process of project structuring, it would be essential to engage technical consultants for preparing a feasibility report. In case of complex projects, a pre-feasibility report can also be considered. Besides establishing the physical and technical feasibility of a project, the feasibility report should also include a broad assessment of the financial viability of the project. When the feasibility of a project is established, it would be necessary to engage financial consultants for developing a financial model for the project and for assisting the Project Authorities in conducting the bid process. It would also be necessary to engage legal consultants for adapting the model documents for individual projects. Such model documents include the Request for Qualification (RFQ), Request for Proposals (RFP) and the Model Concession Agreements (MCAs). In case of sectors where an MCA is not available, it would be necessary to engage qualified and reputed law firms who have experience in drafting such concession agreements and can draw upon the provisions of MCAs to the extent they can be applied.

Role of financial consultants

The role of financial consultants is critical since the success of a PPP project depends on a well structured project which is financially viable. This includes appraising the project, developing a revenue model, reviewing the cost estimates based on the Feasibility Report and assisting the Authority in the bidding process. The financial consultant would collect, compile and analyse the financial data relating to all costs and revenues, and help in the identification and allocation of project risks in an efficient and economic manner.

An important aspect of good financial advice is that the consultant should clearly explain to the Project Authorities the financial impact of the project on government's resources - direct as well as contingent - and the optimal structure for financing and operation of the project. The financial consultant would also participate in meetings and conferences, and shall advise and assist the Authority in resolving the diverse commercial issues that may arise from time to time.

Financial consultant as transaction adviser

Normally, the Project Authorities are comfortable in executing PPP projects with the help of transaction advisers. This reliance on the transaction advisers is a result of the lack of capacity within the government for structuring and award of such projects. A transaction adviser could help in ensuring that the whole process leading to the selection of the concessionaire is transparent and in accordance with the laid down guidelines and parameters. The financial consultants would normally be capable of performing the role of transaction advisers and the two roles could therefore be combined for optimising on time and costs. A transaction adviser could also be asked to assist the Project Authority in selection of the technical and legal consultants at the initial stage of project formulation.

Fair and transparent selection process

The appointment of consultants should not be treated in the same manner as procurement of goods and other services where the bid is awarded to the lowest financial bidder based on pre-determined specifications. This is so because what sets consultancy services apart from other procurements is the advisory and intellectual nature of services which are not amenable to precise quantification.

Procurement of consultants different from procurement of goods and services

Importance of Terms of Reference

The Terms of Reference (ToR) of the consultant provide a brief description of the services the consultant is required to perform. They should include background information, a statement of objectives, a precise scope of work, the nature and number of key personnel to be deployed, schedule for completion of task, the indicative work plan, level of effort, the inputs to be provided by the Project Authority and the deliverables/ outputs that will be required from the consultant.

ToR should be clear and precise

The ToR should be detailed and clearly defined since the performance of the consultant would necessarily have to be measured in terms of the agreed ToR. Clarity in ToR is essential to ensure that the consultants have a clear understanding of the aims and objectives of the Project Authority and the relevance of their consultancy.

Deliverables

It is important to define in the RFP the deliverables expected by the Project Authority at various stages of the consultancy assignment.

The deliverables in the form of advice/documents/reports should be formulated after suitable consultations with the Project Authority. The time frame for the deliverables should be clearly defined and must be adequate for the consultant to prepare an output that is desired by the Project Authority. Normally it is advisable to appoint a nodal/officer to interact with the consultant and to ensure that the period of consultancy is utilised to the optimum.

Key Dates

The Key Dates in the RFP indicate the time schedule that the Project Authority expects the consultant to follow in accordance with the requirement of awarding the project. Normally, the services of the financial consultant are required for a maximum period of one year although dedicated deployment of personnel is required for a period of about 24 weeks. However, in case the financial consultant is also asked to perform the role of a transaction adviser, this period could be longer. The payment to the consultant is linked to the man hours spent on a specific deliverable and the payment schedule is stated upfront in the RFP.

Importance of Agreement

The draft contract agreement covers the terms and conditions of employment of the winning bidder. A standard contract should be used for this purpose. Key elements that the contract ought to include inter alia are the term or duration of the contract; description of the scope of work; provision for modifications to the scope of work; definition of specific tasks and responsibilities; elimination of conflict of interest; change of personnel and use of sub-consultants; ownership of property used by consultant during the course of the project; insurance requirements with specified level of coverage; dispute resolution, including the use of specified rules for arbitration; treatment of Force Majeure; conditions for termination; contract price; and payment schedule.

A binding agreement is necessary

Eligible Projects

Consultants should normally be selected on the basis of their track record and relevant experience. The RFP should clearly indicate the value and nature of past assignments that would be considered eligible for the purpose of evaluating the applicants. Besides a minimum eligibility criteria, the RFP should specify the manner in which past experience would be evaluated.

Evaluation should rely on track record

Key Personnel

The quality of the deliverables from the financial consultant would largely depend on the experience and expertise of the Financial Expert engaged for the assignment. The Project Authority must therefore, determine the nature and discipline of the advice required and identifies a Financial Expert who would play a critical role in the consulting assignment. The Financial Expert should be clearly specified in the bid documents and his minimum qualifications and experience should also be indicated. The Financial Expert and other key personnel, if any, should be evaluated individually and marks assigned. About 30 per cent of the marks for each key personnel may be awarded for the number of relevant eligible assignments the respective key personnel has worked on and the remaining 70 per cent may be awarded for the comparative size and quality of such assignments and relevant experience.

Key personnel to be clearly specified in the bid documents

The minimum time required from each key personnel must also be clearly spelt out in the bid documents so that their services are made available as specified in the bid documents. This would check the tendency of including senior experts in the bid documents but deploying junior personnel when work begins. It is necessary to ensure that the Financial Expert who has been offered is actually deployed for project work or else the entire assignment would be vitiated. The RFP document, should, therefore, specify the days and hours that the Financial Expert must spend on the project and this stipulation should be amenable to close monitoring.

Evaluation of key personnel must be undertaken with care and diligence

Two-envelope system

Consultancy services are normally procured through a ‘two-envelope’ system comprising a technical bid and a financial bid. This method of selection places due emphasis on the quality of consultants by assigning weightage to higher technical experience and expertise. The technical and financial bids are submitted in two separate sealed covers duly superscribed and kept inside a bigger cover which should also be duly sealed and superscribed. The technical bid comprises the information relating to the experience and qualification of the consultant whereas the financial bid comprises the financial offer made by the consultant for performing the services as per the Terms of Reference.

Weightage to higher technical competence

The technical bid is to be opened first. A technical evaluation should be carried out by an evaluation committee constituted by the Project Authority and a list of bidders qualifying the technical criteria should be prepared at this stage, based on pre-determined criteria. The bidders should be ranked according to their respective technical scores. Only the bidders scoring the minimum prescribed marks should be pre-qualified and not more than five bidders should normally be short-listed.

In the second stage, a financial evaluation is to be carried out. The financial bids of only the short listed bidders should be opened for the purpose of further evaluation. Proposals should be finally ranked based on their combined technical and financial scores.

Technical evaluation

The technical proposal should be evaluated mainly for the experience of the applicant firm as well as the experience and qualifications of the key personnel offered for the project. Since the quality of the consulting assignment would largely depend on the qualifications and relevant experience of key personnel proposed to be deployed on the project, only 30 per cent of the maximum marks have been assigned for the experience of the applicant firm while 70 per cent of the maximum marks have been assigned for the key personnel. Evaluation of key personnel is the most important component of evaluation and must, therefore, be undertaken with care and diligence.

Only those applicants, whose technical proposals score the minimum prescribed marks, say 60 points or more out of 100 should be ranked as per score achieved by them, from highest to the lowest technical score. Each key personnel must also score the minimum prescribed marks.

Short-listing of Applicants

Not more than 5 applicants should be prequalified and shortlisted for financial evaluation in the second stage. The Project Authority may increase this number to 6 or 7 in the case of less complex or repetitive projects. The purpose of restricting the number to seven is to ensure that only proposals of high technical standards are considered. This would also provide applicants an incentive to prepare sound proposals. The advantages of getting competent professionals are obvious from the perspective of the Project Authorities.

If the number of pre-qualified bidders is less than two, the Authority may in its sole discretion, pre-qualify the Applicant(s) whose technical score is less than 60 per cent, the minimum

Key personnel play
a dominant role

Proposals of high technical standards to be considered

prescribed, so that at least two applicants compete for the assignment.

Financial Evaluation

In the second stage the financial evaluation should be carried out by assigning a financial score to each financial proposal. The total cost indicated in the financial proposal should be considered for the purpose of financial evaluation. The lowest financial proposal should be given a financial score of 100 points. The financial scores of other proposals should be determined proportionately.

Combined Scores

Proposals should finally be ranked according to their combined technical and financial scores, based on the respective weightage assigned to them. For the purpose of arriving at combined scores, appropriate weightages should be determined for the technical and financial bids. The ratio of weightages for technical and financial bids should be established well in advance and incorporated in the RFP document. The respective weightages should normally be 70 per cent for the technical bid and 30 per cent for the financial bid since the experience and expertise of the consultants would play a critical role in the delivery of services by the consultant.

Generally the successful applicant shall be the applicant having the highest combined score. In the event two or more proposals have the same scores in the final ranking, the proposal with the highest technical score should be ranked first.

Conclusion

A Model RFP document for appointment of financial consultants and transaction advisers has been developed based on the principles outlined above. It is generic in nature and aims at lending transparency and efficiency to the selection process. It also provides the requisite sector-specific and project-specific flexibility by placing several provisions within square brackets, thus enabling the Project Authorities to make necessary substitutions. Some flexibility has also been afforded by the respective footnotes. To the extent possible, the concerned Ministries should standardise the provisions contained in square brackets so that case by case modifications are minimised.

The Model RFP document can, at the option of the Project Authority, be used for the selection of financial consultants and/or transaction advisers. It can also be suitably adapted for engaging other experts for providing advisory services to the government.

The Model RFP document for appointment of financial consultants and transaction advisers addresses the critical requirements that should be satisfied for conducting a fair and transparent bidding process. The administrative ministries and other government entities intending to procure the services of financial consultants and/or transaction advisers for PPP projects should observe these guidelines and adopt the Model RFP document for selection of financial consultants and transaction advisers.

GUIDELINES OF THE MINISTRY OF FINANCE

File No 24(32)/PF-II/09
Government of India
Ministry of Finance
Department of Expenditure
Plan Finance II Division

New Delhi, 29th March 2010

OFFICE MEMORANDUM

Sub: Model Request for Proposals (RFP) for Selection of Financial Consultants and Transaction Advisers

1.0. The undersigned is directed to state that for selection of financial consultants for PPP projects, the Model RFP contained herein may be followed henceforth.

NEED FOR A STANDARDISED FRAMEWORK

2.0. The General Financial Rules (GFR) lay down the general principles to be adopted for procurement of goods and services. In particular, Chapter 6 of GFR deals with 'Procurement of Goods and Services'.

3.0. In order to provide detailed generic guidelines, the Department of Expenditure had issued a Manual of Policies and Procedure for Employment of Consultants in August 2006. This Manual is intended to serve as a practical guide to Ministries and Departments for engaging the services of consultants for various projects. These guidelines suggest many alternate methodologies for procurement of consultants, which include: (i) Quality-cum-cost based selection system (QCBS); (ii) Combined quality-cum-cost based selection system (CQCBS); (iii) Quality based selection system (QBS); and (iv) Cost based selection system (CBS). The methodology to be adopted for selection of consultants depends on the nature and complexity of the projects for which consultants are proposed to be engaged, especially with respect to an appropriate balance between the quality and cost of engaging a consultant.

NEED FOR AN RFP DOCUMENT

4.0. The above mentioned Rules and Manual apply to all types of projects, whether Public Private Partnership (PPP) projects or EPC contracts. However, since PPP projects are inherently different from the normal projects implemented by Government Departments/Ministries, a need has arisen for a separate RFP document for selection and appointment of financial consultants and transaction advisers for PPP projects.

5.0. The RFP document for selection of financial consultants and transaction advisers is substantially based on the duly approved RFPs for selection of technical consultants and legal advisers respectively. Prior to its approval, the RFP document for selection of financial consultants was subjected to extensive consultations with the ministries, state governments, selected consultancy firms and other stakeholders. The document so evolved was endorsed and recommended in an inter-ministerial meeting held on March 2, 2010 under the chairmanship of Deputy Chairman, Planning Commission.

- 6.0. The RFP document for selection of financial consultants is primarily meant to be used for selection of financial consultants and/ or transaction advisers for specific projects. However, where a project authority is undertaking repetitive projects such as in the case of highways, this document can be used for selection of a single firm of financial consultants for advising on a cluster of projects which are similar in nature. Further, for small projects such as those where the underlying value of the assets is less than Rs. 10 crore, the project authority may, instead of appointing a firm of financial consultants, appoint a competent consulting firm which may also procure and provide financial advice as part of its project assignment.

KEY PRINCIPLES GOVERNING RFP

- 7.0. The key principles governing the RFP are stated below.

Separate technical, financial and legal consultants

- 8.0. The Project Authorities would normally need expert financial, legal and technical advice for formulating project documents necessary for award and implementation of projects in an efficient, transparent and fair manner. It is advisable to engage technical, legal and financial consultants separately as the firms rendering such services are independent of each other and must also provide their advice independently. However, a single consultant firm may be engaged for handling all aspects of project preparation and award in exceptional circumstances and for low value projects only.

Role of financial consultants

- 9.0. The role of financial consultants is critical since the success of a PPP project depends on a well-structured project which is financially viable. This includes appraising the project, developing a revenue model, reviewing the cost estimates based on the Feasibility Report and assisting the Project Authority in the bidding process. The financial consultants would collect, compile and analyse the financial data relating to all costs and revenues, and help in the identification and allocation of project risks in an efficient and economic manner.
- 10.0. An important aspect of good financial advice is that the financial consultants should clearly explain to the Project Authority the financial impact of the project on government's resources – direct as well as contingent - and the optimal structure for financing and operation of the project. The financial consultants would also participate in meetings and conferences, and shall advise and assist the Project Authority in resolving the diverse commercial issues that may arise from time to time.

Financial consultant as transaction adviser

- 11.0. Normally, the Project Authorities are comfortable in executing PPP projects with the help of transaction advisers. This reliance on the transaction advisers is a result of the lack of capacity within the government for structuring and award of such projects. A transaction adviser could help in ensuring that the whole process leading to the selection of the concessionaire is transparent and in accordance with the laid down guidelines and parameters. The financial consultants would normally be capable of performing the role of transaction advisers and the two roles could therefore be combined for optimising on time and costs. A transaction adviser could also be asked to assist the Project Authority in selection of the technical and legal consultants at the initial stage of project formulation.

Fair and transparent selection process

12.0. The appointment of consultants should not be treated in the same manner as procurement of goods and other services where the bid is awarded to the lowest financial bidder based on pre-determined specifications. This is so because what sets consultancy services apart from other procurements is the advisory and intellectual nature of services which are not amenable to precise quantification.

Importance of Terms of Reference

13.0. The Terms of Reference (ToR) of the consultant provide a brief description of the services the consultant is required to perform. They should include background information, a statement of objectives, a precise scope of work, the nature and number of key personnel to be deployed, schedule for completion of task, the indicative work plan, level of effort, the inputs to be provided by the Project Authority and the deliverables/ outputs that will be required from the consultant.

Deliverables

14.0. It is important to define in the RFP the deliverables expected by the Project Authority at various stages of the consultancy assignment. The deliverables in the form of advice/documents/reports should be formulated after suitable consultations with the Project Authority. The time frame for the deliverables should be clearly defined and must be adequate for the consultant to prepare an output that is desired by the Project Authority. Normally it is advisable to appoint a nodal/officer to interact with the consultant and to ensure that the period of consultancy is utilised to the optimum.

Key Dates

15.0. The Key Dates in the RFP indicate the time schedule that the Project Authority expects the consultant to follow in accordance with the requirement of awarding the project. Normally, the services of the financial consultant are required for a period of about one year, though dedicated deployment of personnel may be required only for a period of about 24 weeks. The payment of the consultant is linked to the man hours spent on a specific deliverable and the payment schedule should be stated upfront in the RFP.

Importance of Agreement

- 16.0. The draft contract agreement covers the terms and conditions of employment of the winning bidder. A standard contract should be used for this purpose. Key elements that the contract ought to include inter alia are the term or duration of the contract; description of the scope of work; provision for modifications to the scope of work; definition of specific tasks and responsibilities; elimination of conflict of interest; change of personnel and use of sub-consultants; ownership of property used by the consultants during the course of the project; insurance requirements with specified level of coverage; dispute resolution, including the use of specified rules for arbitration; treatment of Force Majeure; conditions for termination; contract price; and payment schedule.

Eligible Projects

- 17.0. Consultants should normally be selected on the basis of their track record and relevant experience. The RFP should clearly indicate the value and nature of past assignments that would be considered eligible for the purpose of evaluating the applicants. Besides a minimum eligibility criteria, the RFP should specify the manner in which past experience would be evaluated.

Key Personnel

- 18.0. The quality of financial advice would largely depend on the experience and expertise of the key personnel engaged for the assignment. The Project Authority must, therefore, determine the nature and discipline of the advice required and identify a limited number of key personnel, including the team leader, who would play a critical role in the consulting assignment.

Two-envelope system

- 19.0. Consultancy services are normally procured through a 'two-envelope' system comprising a technical bid and a financial bid. This method of selection places due emphasis on the quality of consultants by assigning weightage to higher technical experience and expertise. The technical and financial bids are submitted in two separate sealed covers duly superscribed and kept inside a bigger cover which should also be duly sealed and superscribed.
- 20.0. A technical evaluation should be carried out by an evaluation committee constituted by the Project Authority and a list of bidders qualifying the technical criteria should be prepared at this stage, based on pre-determined criteria. The bidders should be ranked according to their respective technical scores. Only the bidders scoring the minimum prescribed marks should be pre-qualified and not more than five bidders should normally be short-listed.
- 21.0. In the second stage, a financial evaluation is to be carried out. The financial bids of only the short listed bidders should be opened for the purpose of further evaluation. Proposals should be finally ranked based on their combined technical and financial scores.

Technical evaluation

- 22.0. The technical proposal should be evaluated mainly for the experience of the applicant firm as well as the experience and qualifications of the key personnel offered for the project. Evaluation of key personnel is the most important component of evaluation and must, therefore, be undertaken with care and diligence.

Short-listing of Applicants

- 23.0. Not more than 7 applicants should be prequalified and shortlisted for financial evaluation in the second stage. The Project Authority may, however, increase the number of short-listed bidders to 8 or 9 in the case of less complex or repetitive projects. The purpose of restricting the number to seven is to ensure that only proposals of high technical standards are considered. This would also provide applicants an incentive to prepare sound proposals. If the number of pre-qualified bidders is less than two, the Authority may in its sole discretion, pre-qualify the Applicant(s) whose technical score is less than 70%, the minimum prescribed, so that at least two applicants compete for the assignment.

Financial Evaluation

- 24.0. In the second stage the financial evaluation should be carried out by assigning a financial score to each financial proposal. The total cost indicated in the financial proposal should be considered for the purpose of financial evaluation.

Combined Scores

- 25.0. Proposals should finally be ranked according to their combined technical and financial scores, based on the respective weightage assigned to them. For the purpose of arriving at combined scores, appropriate weightages should be determined for the technical and financial bids. The ratio of weightages for technical and financial bids should be established well in advance and incorporated in the RFP document. Generally the successful applicant shall be the applicant having the highest combined score. In the event two or more proposals have the same scores in the final ranking, the proposal with the highest technical score should be ranked first.

Project-specific flexibility

- 26.0. The Model RFP document provides the requisite sector-specific and project-specific flexibility by placing several provisions within square brackets, thus enabling the project authorities to make necessary substitutions. Some flexibility has also been afforded by the respective footnotes. To the extent possible, the concerned Ministries should standardise the provisions contained in square brackets so that case by case modifications are minimised.
- 27.0. The Project Authorities may use this document for selection of a single firm to act as financial consultants-cum-transaction advisers or for selection of separate firms to act as financial consultants and transaction advisers respectively.

- 28.0. This RFP document may also be used for selection of financial consultants to advise on social sector projects. For this purpose, suitable modifications may be made to suit sector-specific and project-specific requirements. This RFP document may also be used for selecting other experts for providing advisory services to the government.

CONCLUSION

- 29.0. The Model RFP document annexed with this OM has been developed based on the principles outlined above. It is generic in nature and aims at lending transparency and efficiency to the selection process. It addresses the critical requirements that should be satisfied for conducting a fair and transparent bidding process. The administrative ministries and other government entities intending to procure the services of financial consultants and/or transaction advisers should observe these guidelines and adopt the Model RFP document for selection of financial consultants and transaction advisers.
- 30.0. This RFP shall apply to all Ministries and Departments of the Central Governmental statutory entities under the control of Central Government and all Central Public Sector Undertakings (CPSUs).

RELAXATION OF GFR PROVISIONS

- 31.0. GFR provisions relating to hiring of consultants stand relaxed to the extent of the procedure indicated in this OM specifically and only for the purposes of hiring of financial consultants and/or transaction advisers for PPP projects.
- 32.0. These instructions shall come into force with immediate effect and will apply to all cases where bids are invited after May 1, 2010.

- 2.3.5 In the event that the Consultant, its Associates or affiliates are auditors or financial advisers to any of the bidders for the Project, they shall make a disclosure to the Authority as soon as any potential conflict comes to their notice but in no case later than 7 (seven) days from the opening of the RFQ applications for the Project and any breach of this obligation of disclosure shall be construed as Conflict of Interest. The Authority shall, upon being notified by the Consultant under this Clause 2.3.5, decide whether it wishes to terminate this Consultancy or otherwise, and convey its decision to the Consultant within a period not exceeding 15 (fifteen) days.

1. This Note further explains and illustrates the provisions of Clause 2.3 of the RFP and shall be read together therewith in dealing with specific cases.
2. Consultants should be deemed to be in a conflict of interest situation if it can be reasonably concluded that their position in a business or their personal interest could improperly influence their judgment in the exercise of their duties. The process for selection of consultants should avoid both actual and perceived conflict of interest.
3. Conflict of interest may arise between the Authority and a consultant or between consultants and present or future concessionaries/ contractors. Some of the situations that would involve conflict of interest are identified below:
 - (a) Authority and consultants:
 - (i) Potential consultant should not be privy to information from the Authority which is not available to others.
 - (ii) Potential consultant should not have defined the project when earlier working for the Authority.
 - (iii) Potential consultant should not have recently worked for the Authority overseeing the project.
 - (b) Consultants and concessionaires/contractors:
 - (i) No consultant should have an ownership interest or a continuing business interest or an on-going relationship with a potential concessionaire/ contractor save and except relationships restricted to project-specific and short-term assignments.
 - (ii) No consultant should be involved in owning or operating entities resulting from the project.
 - (iii) No consultant should bid for works arising from the project.

The participation of companies that may be involved as investors or consumers and officials of the Authority who have current or recent connections to the companies involved, therefore, needs to be avoided.

4. The normal way to identify conflicts of interest is through self-declaration by consultants. Where a conflict exists, which has not been declared, competing companies are likely to bring this to the notice of the Authority. All conflicts must be declared as and when the consultants become aware of them.
5. Another approach towards avoiding a conflict of interest is through the use of “Chinese walls” to avoid the flow of commercially sensitive information from one part of the consultant’s company to another. This could help overcome the problem of availability of limited numbers of experts for the project. However, in reality effective operation of “Chinese walls” may be a difficult proposition. As a general rule, larger companies will be more capable of adopting Chinese walls approach than smaller companies. Although, “Chinese walls” have been relatively common for many years, they are an increasingly discredited means of avoiding conflicts of interest and should be considered with caution. As a rule, “Chinese walls” should be considered as unacceptable and may be accepted only in exceptional cases upon full disclosure by a consultant coupled with provision of safeguards to the satisfaction of the Authority.

6. Another way to avoid conflicts of interest is through the appropriate grouping of tasks. For example, conflicts may arise if consultants drawing up the terms of reference or the proposed documentation are also eligible for the consequent assignment or project.
7. Another form of conflict of interest called “scope–creep” arises when consultants advocate either an unnecessary broadening of the terms of reference or make recommendations which are not in the best interests of the Authority but which will generate further work for the consultants. Some forms of contractual arrangements are more likely to lead to scope-creep. For example, lump-sum contracts provide fewer incentives for this, while time and material contracts provide built in incentives for consultants to extend the length of their assignment.
8. Every project contains potential conflicts of interest. Consultants should not only avoid any conflict of interest, they should report any present/ potential conflict of interest to the Authority at the earliest. Officials of the Authority involved in development of a project shall be responsible for identifying and resolving any conflicts of interest. It should be ensured that safeguards are in place to preserve fair and open competition and measures should be taken to eliminate any conflict of interest arising at any stage in the process.
